Public Relations Person Needed

We are seeking a volunteer to represent Mountain Synagogue, who will visit or contact newspapers, hospitals, nursing facilities, Realtors, Chambers of Commerce and so forth, to make them aware of our existence and possibly hand out literature for them to distribute. If you are interested or would like to put a committee together to handle this task, please contact our corresponding secretary, Norma Schulman at n.schulman@frontier.com

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Shalom, and can you believe September is already here? While 2020 seemed like it took forever, 2021 seems to me to be flying by! Is it because we have all these pent up feelings and emotions stored up from staying home in 2020, or is it that we are trying to pack so much into living now that we don't seem to have time to get everything done?

With our High Holy Days upon us, we should all take this time to reflect, think about what we truly have to be thankful for in our lives, but also, reflect on what we feel we could have done better so far this year, things we should have done, or shouldn't have done. Things we need to repair. Looking back on our lives and interactions with those we share this planet with and have come into contact with, and realizing we may have something to apologize for, maybe something we did, or something we didn't do, but should have done?

I saw this and thought it was appropriate to share, and to the point.

As we enter into the Days of Awe, start with "I'm sorry." We hate to be the ones to tell you, but there are no shortcuts. It doesn't work if you only ask God for forgiveness. Like, "Hey God, please make sure (Josh, Linda, Maryanne, you get the idea,) forgives me for not responding to that email about..." Only you can take care of that. So, stop wasting time, and follow these steps: Feel it: You need to actually feel sorry for forgiveness to happen. (Trust us, we've tried it the other way.) Call, visit or write a letter: Don't use a text to clean up your mess. (OK, fine, text if you must. But there are better ways...) Say this: "I know we're still fighting about..." or "I'm sorry I haven't been there for you during..." or, "I'm sorry I lied about..." Most importantly, say: "I am truly sorry, and I hope you forgive me." And then give the person a chance to do that. Don't expect immediate gratification because it doesn't always work that way. What about the people in your life who you aren't arguing with? The ones you see all the time — and you're pretty sure you're cool with? Don't take any chances. Double-check. Say something like, "If I hurt you in this year and I didn't realize it, I apologize." It is a very sweet gesture and strengthens relationships. And remember, according to the wise Rabbis of Old: If you apologize to someone three times from your heart, and they still don't forgive you, you've fulfilled your obligation. You might also want to remind said wronged person that forgiving is important too. Actually, don't. That's just going to irritate them even more. :)

L'Shanah Tovah

President
